All Of Us Project

The All of Us project, led by the NIH, aims to build a diverse health database for research on health and disease. By donating blood samples, you can support this effort and receive your DNA sequencing results and ancestry information. Personal details remain confidential. Visit the All of Us exhibit in the Library's parking lot from September 10 to 13, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., to learn more and consider participating. Other organizations will also be present. For details, visit our website.
